

3 named Distinguished Alumni Award winners

By Amy Borgert

On May 13, 2010, the Oakwood High School Alumni Board will recognize the third class of Distinguished Alumni Award winners – Peter Armentrout, Kim Faris-Weimer, and Rick Schwartz. These three individuals have made significant contributions to their industries and their communities, and best exemplify what it means to be a graduate of Oakwood High School. And while they are being recognized now, these three individuals' careers are far from over. In the midst of great productivity and contribution, they talked to me about where they have been, how they got where they are today, where they might go from here, and what advice they might share for future distinguished alumni.

Peter Armentrout

Peter Armentrout is as sure as science. As a young student at Oakwood High School, Peter knew he wanted a career in science and was also certain enough about one of his classmates, Mary Ann White (class of 1971), who is now his wife (and also a chemist). As an accomplished chemistry professor at the University of Utah, Armentrout leads research on using guided ion-beam mass spectrometry to provide high-quality bond dissociation data for otherwise unwieldy systems. While that may not translate well to non-scientists, it means a lot to fellow thermodynamics and chemistry colleagues.

As a member of the Class of 1971, Armentrout gravitated towards chemistry and physics, knowing that science was his thing, but was able to diversify his attentions and enjoy a well-rounded high school experience at Oakwood through participation in a variety of activities. Challenging teachers helped Armentrout develop good study habits. Science department stand-outs Ted Shisler and Oliver Sipe helped Armentrout develop a strong foundation on which to build his education. He was also able to enjoy participation in theatre and debate, which provided a nice distraction and provided balance to his structured science classes, but also helped him focus on his goals.

Upon graduation from Oakwood, Armentrout activated his career in thermodynamics at Case Western Reserve University and then as a graduate student and fellow at the California Institute of Technology. His research contributions were recognized, and by 1981, Armentrout was an assistant professor at the University of California at Berkeley. Numerous fellowships, international recognitions, and awards later, today Armentrout is a Distinguished Professor of Chemistry at the University of Utah, and just recently stepped down as Chairman of the Chemistry Department – a position he held for over 6 years.

His career has been a very successful one, but perhaps most personally rewarding has been his experience teaching – one that has facilitated the development of new generations of scientists to continue his work – the labor of love that is research. As a teacher, he believes there are key lessons students today should understand regarding their education.

Don't be afraid to work hard, and take ownership of your own education. Go out and get the information you need to learn, because it will not always be given to you.

As a student, if you don't know what you want to do, expose yourself to a broad range of courses and find out what excites you early on.

His colleagues and students are undoubtedly familiar with his ethic, and respect the collaboration and scientific discussion prompted by his broad and open-minded character. Colleague Kenji Honma, professor at the Graduate School of Material Science at the University of Hyogo in Japan, is impressed not only by his outstanding scientific achievements, but also by the reliability of the data he produces. This seemingly simple matter has been the product of state-of-the-art experimental technique and uncompromising quality, leading to precise information about chemical reactions and beautifully accurate measurements – a true success to those in the field of ion chemistry and thermodynamics.

Armentrout believes his own determination, perseverance, and focus helped him achieve this great level of success. He has had his share of setbacks, and bumps in the road - getting fired from his first job for instance - but when things don't go right, Armentrout believes you just have to work that much harder and not let yourself become a victim. He also believes those hobbies and extra activities that one enjoys enable you to relieve some pressure and have some enjoyment when one part of your life isn't going so well. Because ultimately, success to Peter Armentrout is being happy and contributing to society. It is this success that makes him a Distinguished

Alumni of Oakwood High School.

Kim Faris

Kim Faris has made a career out of her personality. While she may not have always realized it, her tremendous heart and positive nature speak to everyone around her. On air she brightens listeners' days, and off air she contributes selflessly to the communities around her. While this Class of 1974 graduate seemed destined to perform, the airwaves were not always the obvious choice.

As a student at Oakwood, Kim enjoyed the diversity of curriculum and classmates, as well as teachers that saw the potential in students and made it enjoyable to learn. As one of Mr. Zimmerman's music students, Kim was encouraged to go to the state high school soloist competition for singing. He chose an Italian aria for her to sing, and sat at the piano after school, going through it word by word, teaching her the pronunciation. The day of the solo competition, she received a superior rating – and the knowledge she could achieve whatever she set her sights on.

After graduation from Oakwood, Kim headed to Cazenovia College in New York to study dance, and her dream was to open up her own studio so she could teach others. However, an accidental injury derailed her plans and sent her on a detour from major to major. It was a visit to a studio with a performing arts group where she saw a disc jockey in action and realized what she wanted to do. After a meeting with her counselor, she switched majors for the seventh time, and earned her B.S. in Broadcast Journalism at Bowling Green State

Lewis receives UD Entrepreneurship Volunteer award

Oakwood resident Vince Lewis received the University of Dayton Entrepreneurship Volunteer of the Year Award at its April Annual Entrepreneurship Dinner. According to entrepreneurship Professor Robert Chelle, Mr. Lewis received the prestigious award for high level participation in the L. William Crotty Advisory Council, guest lecturing to both undergraduates and graduate entrepreneurship students, serving as a panelist for student projects and the personal mentoring of entrepreneurship majors.

For a fourth consecutive year, the University of Dayton undergraduate Entrepreneurship Program has been ranked as a Top Ten Program in the nation by The Princeton Review and Entrepreneur Magazine.

Chris Smith celebrating two milestones

Oakwood resident Chris Smith has two milestones to celebrate. As he turns 50 on May 10, he also celebrates the fact that he has walked over 5,000 miles with his trusty golden retriever, Ike (who just turned 9), and his neighbor, Sue Montesano. The trio started walking together in early 2003 and they haven't stopped since. They walk three miles a day, seven days a week.

Chris Smith but it has been well worth it", said

"We met through our sons, Adam Smith and AJ Montesano, who have been best friends since kindergarten at Smith School in Oakwood. We walk through every kind of weather including ice, snow and rain. It is more labor intensive in the winter

Montesano. "We never really calculated how much we walked until a neighbor asked a couple of weeks ago. So we got out the calculator and were shocked at how far we had gone. The amazing thing about Chris is that he also swims during lunch most weekdays so he gets a double workout."

Smith can also be seen riding his bike through Oakwood. Last summer he launched the 1st Annual Musket Ridge Triathlon that started in Oakwood. He and several friends completed the grueling competition in Franklin, Ohio. Chris and wife Milissa are also celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary this May.

Larry Hardy donates 75th gallon of blood

Larry Hardy in midst of donating his 75th gallon of blood.

Larry Hardy, 76, has given blood over six hundred times over the past forty five years, originally starting by donating at Wright-Patterson AFB in the mid-sixties. Just recently, Mr. Hardy reached a record for this area by donating his 75th gallon of blood. He is working toward an eventual goal of 100 gallons. Once a month he is able to give plasma and twice a month he donates platelets at the Community Blood Center in downtown Dayton.

Hardy hails from Oakwood originally, having attended Edwin D. Smith elementary as a child from third through sixth grade and graduating from Oakwood High School with the class of 1952.

Hardy just celebrated another milestone in his life as well. On April 15, he retired from Wright-Patterson AFB after 53 years there as an engineer.

Letters to the Editor

Bravo to Willy Wonka pit orchestra

Congratulations to all that were involved in putting on the wonderful production of Willy Wonka! I would like to point out one glaring omission however to the article that ran in the March 23rd issue recognizing the on stage, back stage and production talent involved. The individuals omitted were the fine musicians who dedicated just as much time to rehearsing and performing as everyone previously mentioned. Kudos to Mr. Nelson for assembling such a fine group; who deserved better at the performance I attended in terms of a visual recognition from the stage at the conclusion of the show. This nod to the pit musicians is a common practice in all professional settings and this production should have been no different. I am a professional musician in the USAF Band of Flight and continue to perform in other capacities in the local area.

It is all too easy to take the music that accompanies the stage talent for granted and as a result I feel that a "better late than never" thank you is due to Mr. Nelson and the musicians listed below: Conductor-Mr. Ron Nelson Amy Enloe, Glenda Nelson, Phil Hanna, Naomi Tellez, Jacob Knorr, Erin Maher, Ciara Marlin, Kathryn Wittoesch, Nicole Maher, Sophie Shephard, Lyndsay Seery, Primrose Mangilog, Herbert Sizek, Adam Sobol, Erin Taylor, Cameron Long, Eric Black, Raphael Crum, Zack Halpern, Robert Black, Andra Bane, Jon Taylor, Peter Schweizer, Will Swank, Marcelle Bonterre, Carter Fowler, Robert Rutledge and Natalie Daniels.

Response to 'a very concerned citizen'

I normally wouldn't take the time to write responses in the newspaper. As a full-time student with a part-time job, I don't often get the chance to read the news, although I find it enjoyable. However, I was ashamed of last week's letter.

"Concerned citizen" struck me as angry, overly dramatic, and paranoid. "Citizen" I know that some parts of government are flawed and Medicare can be frustrating. As someone who was recently hospitalized and watched as my mom sorted out hours of insurance issues over the phone, it is obviously enough to send a monk into madness. Newsflash, it is not the responsibility to Big or Small government to wipe your behind. Many people automatically blame government, this is illogical. You have individual responsibilities that are not part of the government's job. Government does not always meet our every need but they try to create the best results to those that take interest in them.

As for your other concerns my answers are simple. The environment is a growing problem, whether or not you acknowledge it. For anyone who is going to be around for an additional fifty years or more our livelihood depends on a cleaner planet. Without cleaner renewable resources and some science to help reverse the effects of the industrial revolution, the temperature alone will likely kill us off. Unless we adapt through either scientific or extraordinary evolutionary phenomena this home will no longer be the haven it once was. Do some research before you make untrue statements about our Big Government.

It blows my mind that you would discourage the exploration of our surrounding environment. First, I'm fairly certain that most of the money used for exploration is from generous philanthropists, not our taxes. Your so called "science" is actually saving peoples lives. As the daughter of a scientist I know they do a lot of controversial things but also benefit society greatly. Without science the amount of meat you consume in a year, provided you're neither vegan nor entirely independent of Big Government's subsidized food sources due to the irrational fear of intentional poisoning, would be significantly less. Science invented animal husbandry that yields better and bigger animals in less time. Specifically, thanks to Big Government you have an American lamb that is twice the size of anything you'll find in European countries.

As for your comment on the roads and communist writers I'm not even responding to that. Back to your space issues., I suggest you build your space ship, if you actually have the money and genius, the latter of which I doubt, so you can get off this ball of dirt and rid us all of your lunacy and obvious need for something to do.

'Round Town

Remember the "...Hobart sisters" from Troy...who belonged to Dayton's Junior League? They were Lucia Bravo and Marcia Howell. Well, Marcia's son Busser Howell just sent an announcement of an exhibition of his newest paintings, entitled: CIRCLE SQUARED, that will be on display at the Phoenix Gallery on Eleventh Ave. at 25th Street in New York City from April 28th 'til May 22nd.

Busser and his cousins – the Bravo girls – all took riding lessons at Honey Hill Farm years and years ago. It's been terrific to keep-up with all those 'riders' though the years. The last time everyone was together – riders, their 'instructor', and most of the Hobart family – was in Rome for a family wedding!

Dr. Martha Moody is having a get-together the first Sunday in May for the participants in her annual 'Teaching in Israel' trip. The group will be in Israel from mid-June until mid-July. It will be wonderful to get acquainted with this diverse collection of...some who speak Arabic, some who speak Hebrew, and some who've been buying dictionaries for all of the above.

The Trillium is blooming along Houk Stream! Trillium always blooms after the first dramatic burst of Red Bud, daffodils, Spring Beauties (those bright blue flowers), and Dog Woods. Trillium is white – and it blooms sort of 'overnight' and it lasts a very few days.

There's a large 'clump' just off the path from Runnymede to Ridgeway...on the West side of the path...and across the creek from 'Francine's Garden'. Hurry over and enjoy!

Helen Kavanaugh, a long time staff member at WPAFB and member of the Trailblazer organization, invited Ginny Whalen to the Trailblazers 28th year of awards to outstanding trailblazers in the aviation field.

The awards banquet was held at the Presidential center in Kettering and it commemorated the 143 Birthday of Wilbur Wright. Marvin Christian, who's president of the Aviation Trail, Inc. welcomed attendees and introduced Clark E Beck, Sr., D.Sc.

The Trailblazer Award winner was Joe Sciabica, Executive Director of the Air Force Research Laboratory. Through the years

this Award had been bestowed upon Ervin & Zoe Dell Nutter, Ivonne Wright Miller (niece of Orville & Wilbur), the Hartzell Family, Tony Hall, Tom Crouch, Ph-D, Howard DuFour, and Amanda Wright Lane (great-great-grand niece of the Wright Brothers).

A beautiful celebration of thanksgiving for Betty McArthur Heller was held Saturday morning at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. It was wonderful to see Betty's sons, Matt, who lives in Connecticut, and John, and daughter Elizabeth Heller Allen. Grandchildren Steve Heller, Nicholas Allen, Cassidy Heller, and Caitlin Heller all participated. Granddaughter Elizabeth Allen had tales about Grandmother that brought smiles, chuckles, and laugh-out-loud reactions from Betty's many friends.

Remembrance by Manuel Fernandez, was noted in the program. "Manuel became a part of our family in 1969 as an exchange student from Argentina who lived with us for a year." Manuel is now in the Diplomatic Corps – Foreign Service of Argentina. His remarks of what the Heller family had done for him – brought near-tears and many chuckles.

Irvin H. Harlamert, Juris Doctorate, OHS class of 1948, recently partnered with Oakwood High School and the Oakwood Schools Education Foundation to create the Oakwood Entrepreneurship Competition, a contest open to the school's tenth through twelfth graders, challenging them to actively consider the idea of becoming an entrepreneur. This year students wrote an essay or submitted a multimedia presentation on the topic Rewards and Risks of being an Entrepreneur,

"Ten years out it would be a huge reward for me if some of you participants become entrepreneurs after being encouraged by this competition," Harlamert said. Awarded at a celebration on April 15, participants received one of twelve cash prizes in four categories totaling $5,100, donated by Mr. Harlamert.

Students gained an understanding of the value of entrepreneurship in the marketplace. In addition to learning more about what it means to be an entrepreneur, students examined the importance of leadership, strategy, culture and people.

The following students were winners in the competition:

"Inspired" (each earned $600 cash prize)

- Anna Deitz
- Rachel Ramey
- Ben Roess
- Adam Sobol

"Innovators" (each earned $400 cash prize)

- Ryan Dempsey
- Grace Hahn
- Kevin Lee
- Tim Zurich

"Creators" (each earned $200 cash prize)

- Dan Edwards
- Samantha Obermeyer
- Gabriel Robinson
- Corey Weckerling

"Adventurers" (each earned $100 cash prize)

- Duncan Richards Bailor
- Cory Bohache
- Halley Edwards

The Oakwood Schools Education Foundation is grateful to Mr. Harlamert for bringing this exciting new program to Oakwood High School and helping to further the Foundation's mission of Enhancing Excellence in the Oakwood Schools. Philharmonic concert features Hung symphonic debut

Burt
Saidel

Maestro Neal Gittleman's programming for the Philharmonic is challenging, interesting and, above all, musically entertaining. For the final April concert, Neal's program included inviting guest conductor John DeMain to visit Dayton. DeMain is Director of both Madison, Wisconsin's symphony and opera and has wide-ranging credits.

In addition, Concertmaster Jessica Hung made her symphonic debut playing the musical gem, Max Bruch's Violin Concerto No. 1. The Philharmonic has such wonderful musicians. A recent concert of the Principal Quartet was proof positive. Using our principal players as soloists is a perfect enhancement of our season program and of their careers.

On May 2, Principal French Horn Robert Johnson will play a Mozart horn concerto at Symphony Sundaes. Jessica will return to the solo spotlight on May 26/27 in the final Chamber Concert. These bright young stars are not a diminution of soloist quality but an addition of passion and youthful verve.

The concert program was a perfect mix of musical styles. The featured works, the Bruch concerto and Berlioz' monumental Symphonie fantastique, were introduced by a stunning contemporary piece, Christopher Theofanidis' Rainbow Body.

In his charming footlight speech, Maestro DeMain told of the composer's fascination with medieval chants. He used the melody of plainsong by 12th century abbess Hildegard von Bingen..

The melody was introduced by Andra Padrichelli's cello. It worked its way through every instrument and in permutations, creating freshness and excitement in both musicians and audience. One startling effect, DeMain described as the sound of ecstasy, came from the "uvulation" of the musicians. Every player who did not have an instrument in his mouth was asked to make a remarkable vocal sound. The audience loved the work and this stunning "mystery" effect.

Soloist Hung made her appearance both musical and glamorous. I don't have the expertise to describe her lovely dress - please ask those more qualified. I can describe the music.

The Bruch concerto is one of the most popular works in the symphonic repertory. It deserves to be. Full of lovely melodies and exhilarating violin technique, the work moves through a range of dynamics keeping the violin always in central focus.

I often conduct my own private contest to decide the most beautiful concerto slow movement. The Bruch is always on the medal podium! Jessica played a haunting melody over and over. It is as if an operatic soprano got to sing the great aria not once, but many times.

The exhilarating final Allegro energico movement demonstrated Jessica's star-quality. After a sustained standing ovation, she rewarded the audience and her beaming colleagues with an unaccompanied Bach encore. When I was asked at intermission, "What was that?" I merely replied, "Exquisite."

Berlioz' Symphonie fantastique lives up to its descriptive name perfectly. Each of the five movements depicts the struggle, opium-enhanced, of an artist's life and times. The artist was, of course, the composer. The opium was an authentic adjunct to both the symphony and its creator..

Each of the movements is a challenge to conductor and musician. Under Maestro DeMain's baton, the orchestra played magnificently. Amazing solos by members of each section are still whirling in my head as I write this.

John Kurokawa's clarinet, with the help of Rebecca Tryon's flute, maintained the idée fixe, the central theme of the lover. Eileen Whalen's oboe and Robyn Dixon Costa's English horn had starring roles as plaintive shepherds distracting the frenzied artist/hero. The famous March to the Scaffold 4th movement needed four timpanists and a cacophony of drums, cymbals and chimes to get our hero's head to depart from his body.

One of my favorite parts in the final movement is what I have called "the drunken woodwind choir." Every reed instrument was tootling away in a delightful musical discord.

I could go on and on about this great performance. I hope that each of these works, so perfectly fitted to our great orchestra and great hall, will be repeated soon.

Josh Halpern recital

Youth will have its day. Young and talented Oakwood sophomore Josh Halpern proved that in his performance at UD's Sears Recital Hall.

Josh is a very serious cellist. He plans to go on to music school and on to a career as a soloist. This was his first recital and watching and hearing his public debut made this Debut from page 24 adventure meaningful and promising.

Like all first recitals, the program was overly challenging. Josh stepped onto the stage to play six parts of a Bach Suite for unaccompanied cello. I would liken such a task to walking naked in public on a very cold day. Everything is exposed!

Bach seemed to win the initial contest but Josh, confident and less nervous, tackled Brahms' magnificent E minor sonata. Pianist Byron Dobbs provided the piano accompaniment. From the very first notes, the special Brahms' sound was projected with clarity and élan.

Each of the three movements was given a sympathetic and passionate reading. All memories of the naked walk through the Bach were erased.

The final work was even a greater challenge and a greater triumph. Josh and Byron played Saint-Saëns Cello Concerto No. 1. Again, it was a marvel of wonderful music and magnificent sound.

We can all be proud and feel ourselves fortunate to have been at the beginning of a brilliant future for a very fine young man.

Alumni from page 1 University. This was an important lesson for Kim, who didn't see the experience as a failure to achieve her original dream, but the opportunity to explore another possibility, another direction for her life.

Kim began her broadcasting career in 1979 when she joined local Dayton radio stations, WING-AM/WJAI-FM (which later became WGTZ-Z-93 FM). For 28 years Kim could be heard morning, mid-day or night, interviewing guests, playing music, and hosting community events. Her talent has been recognized by her peers, and Kim was inducted into the Radio/Television Broadcasters Hall of Fame of Ohio in 2006, the Dayton Area Broadcasters Hall of Fame in 2007, and also on the 20th anniversary of her on-air debut by the Montgomery County Commissioners with a county proclamation, making it "Kim Faris Day". Today Kim continues to entertain and delight her listeners, hosting the afternoon broadcast at 99.9 LITE FM.

A teacher at Oakwood, Miss Verda Sieber, once told Kim's mother, "Kim will probably never be the best student, but she will be a success because she cares about people." This observation was spot on for Kim, who has been involved with people and organizations in the Dayton area for years. Organizations such as Project Read, The Walk for Women's Wellness, We Care Arts and The MDA, The Noble Circle Project, The Other Place, and the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation have benefited from Kim's hard work and giving heart.

It is likely that anyone in Dayton who has ever listened to the radio knows who Kim Faris is, and knows of her successes. What they may not know is that this success is so much more meaningful than hours logged on air, the number of interviews conducted, or events she has hosted. Success to Kim is recognizing all the blessings that come into your life. For her this means a husband, two children, wonderful friends, and the opportunity to do something she loves. It's also about being able to make a difference, by making maybe just one person smile a day. Kim has done that and so much more for over 30 years, distinguishing herself as an outstanding alumnus of Oakwood High School.

Rick Schwartz

Everyone who has attended Oakwood High School or lived within the city limits has heard of "the Dome". The nickname pokes fun at the idyllic neighborhood, known for its well-groomed, intimate neighborhood, and traditional values. Even today, Oakwood has a certain something that recalls less hectic, simpler times. Times like 1967, when Rick Schwartz was a senior at Oakwood High School. Rick and his fellow classmate and wife Jane Flory, grew up with values like those depicted in Leave It to Beaver, and Ozzie and Harriet.

Looking back, Rick Schwartz – longtime Daytonian and CEO of WinWholesale, thinks fondly of the unique aspects of Oakwood High School – the great teachers, competitive academic environment, friendships, and memories of wonderful buildings with Tudor architecture and fantastic woodwork. As a student, Schwartz also appreciated the values of hard work, discipline and goal-setting, as well as classical music that teachers like Oliver Sipe, William Kuhns and Fred Walker taught their students. They were challenging, but in the end it made things easy. Being able to manage a bigger workload and communicate effectively through writing were skills for which he has been thankful for everyday of his life. Schwartz carried these skills with him to the University of Akron, where he was a 4-year Air Force ROTC student in the Vietnam War Era. A few miles away from where he was studying industrial engineering, the Kent State protests occurred. The conflict and contrasts of points of view he observed at this moment in history helped hone his conservative values and love of country. After graduating from the University of Akron, Schwartz stayed in the Air Force after active duty and retired a Lieutenant Colonel.

With the leadership skills acquired in the Air Force and a lot of hard work, Schwartz spent 27 years getting down in the trenches, learning the wholesale business at WinWholesale – Dayton's largest privately owned company today. In 1999, Schwartz was made CEO and would begin Win Wholesale's impressive growth to one of the country's leading distributors. As the organization's leader, Schwartz has focused on building a company that helps capable, hard-working entrepreneurial people succeed. It is this ability to help develop processes, procedures and systems that give opportunities to young people to run a small business independently that makes Schwartz most proud of his work.

This same commitment to people and the surrounding community has made him a respected leader in Dayton as well. Rick and his wife Jane have been selfless supporters of the arts, education and many other worthy causes – involved in and supporting the Aviation Trail, Culture Works, Dayton Art Institute, Dayton Rotary Club, Oakwood Education Foundation, Schuster Center, Second and Main project, United Service Organizations, Young America's Foundation, and other worthy organizations in the Dayton Area. Amongst work obligations, Schwartz is also able to provide leadership as a board member. He has served on the boards of the Arts Center Foundation, the Dayton Foundation, the Kettering Education Foundation, the Victoria Theatre Association, as well as and is currently serving on the board for the Dayton Development Coalition.

Rick Schwartz has succeeded on many levels – in his career as leader of an industry-leading company; in his community as a selfless contributor, and personally with a wonderful family with shared values. And keeping those in balance – a success in itself. But a man's work is never done, and just as Schwartz has made great strides in his career, his future plans are ambitious as well. For his employees, shareholders and for the community – Schwartz wants to ensure the ongoing successful future of WinWholesale by mentoring and training the future leaders of the company. His goal: leave it a better company and to have leaders that will continue its growth and success.

As a Daytonian, his goals are similar. The longtime supporter of the region wants to spread the word on the virtues of life in the region and its communities, and work to continue economic development and growth. In a very non-traditional world, Rick Schwartz has distinguished himself as an outstanding alumni for his outstanding business accomplishments, community leadership, and vision for the future – a vision that may look a little more like Ozzie and Harriet, but outstanding regardless.

Jacks scalp Warriors, collar Bulldogs and bedeviled by Brookville

The Oakwood Lumberjacks locked horns with the Blue Devils of Brookville Monday evening in an important contest to remain in the hunt for the SWBL title. The Jacks, looking to exorcise the demons from a walk-off loss earlier in the season to Brookville, sent senior hurler Ben "Big Foot" Roess to the mound. The Blue Devils were possessed from the onset, stringing together three singles and a double to light up the scoreboard 3 times in the opening frame. Roess struggled with his control in the 2nd inning, walking three and yielding two singles for a pair of runs before Coach Nathan Hyatt went to the wily right hander, Troy Philo. Philo extinguished the fire with an infield pop-out and a fly ball to center, but the damage had been done with the Blue Devils extending their lead to 5-0.

The Blue Devil pitcher, Oswald "Ozzie" Osburn, sliced thru the Jacks offense like a hot knife thru butter all evening. Osburn struck out the side twice, and rang up 15 Lumberjacks throughout the evening. The Jacks managed just two hits in the contest - a single by Greg Ambrose in the 5th to drive in the Jacks sole run of the evening and a Connor Charbat double in the gap in the 6th, extended his hitting streak. The Blue Devils coasted to a 6-1 victory.

The bright spots for the Lumberjacks were on defense. Philo pitched impressively again for the Lumberjacks, striking out five and giving up a single earned run on four hits in 5 2/3 innings pitched. With two out in the 5th with two runners aboard, shortstop Robbie Wagner made a diving stab on a sharp grounder in the hole, whirled and threw from his knees for a force-out at 2nd base. Leftfielder and batting champ Colin Morris made the highlight reel twice with a headlong diving catch of a shallow fly ball down the left field line in the 5th, and leapt high above the fence to rob Garret of a home run in the 6th inning.

Oakwood falls to 7-5 overall and 4-3 in SWBL play. The Jacks will have to win their remaining five conference games to have a shot at bringing home their first SWBL title since Eisenhower was president (1955).

Lumberjacks scalp Warriors 12-2

Oakwood Coach Nathan Hyatt came into tonight's game against Waynesville determined to get the Jacks back into the win column after a disappointing loss to Brookville the previous night. Senior right hander Jeff Beall took the ball and dispatched the Warriors in the top the first inning. The Jacks' potent offense wasted no time getting started with a base rap by Colin Morris, a howitzer shot over the scoreboard by right fielder Corey Bohache, and a 416 foot stand-up RBI double by Hank Beasore to the expansive right field pasture of Chuck Ely Field, putting the Jacks on top 3-0 in the bottom of the first. Beasore's hit is believed to be the longest double in Lumberjack history.

The Jacks piled on four more runs in the 2nd stanza. Michael Galaska thumped a double off the left field fence to start the rally. Morris drove a fastball to right center for a two-bagger, driving in Galaska. After being called out by the umpire on a 1-1 fastball, a perplexed Charbat slapped an RBI single to left to set the stage again for more Bohache pyrotechnics. The senior slugger lined the 1-0 pitch over the left field fence into the Oakwood-Dayton Christian track meet, disrupting the baton pass in the Women's 4x200 relay. Bohache's third round tripper of the season gave the Lumberjacks a 7-0 lead, and tied him for the team lead in home runs with Wagner.

Waynesville staged their lone rally in the 3rd inning, stringing together five consecutive singles to record their only 2 tallies of the contest, bringing the score to 7-2.

Roberto Wagner started the Lumberjack 4th with a two-strike opposite field single. Galaska placed a bunt down the first base line to sacrifice Wagner to 3rd. Charbat continued swinging a hot bat with a line-drive RBI single to right. Bohache lofted a sacrifice fly to center for his 5th RBI of the day. A one-hop smash off the third sacker's glove by Jervis put runners on the corners. Beasore then drilled the 2-1 pitch over the center fielders head, driving in Charbat and Jervis, with Beasore chugging into second for another stand-up double. Designated hitter Greg Ambrose drove in the final Jacks run with a single to left field, making it a dozen runs for the home team.

J-Dog Beall snuffed out the Warriors in the 4th and the 5th. The Jacks clinched the run-rule with a Corrado-Wagner-Arbogast twin-killing, causing Tinkers, Evers, and Chance to sit up and take notice. The Oakwood faithful streamed for the exits early with 12-2 for their 8th victory of the campaign.

The Jacks collected 12 hits in the contest, led by Bohache's pair of home runs and two hits by Beasore, Charbat, and Morris. As Lawrence Lamb, the Pundit of Peach Orchard, often said, "Hitting is 90% mental. Once you got that licked, you're half way there." Beall ran his record to 2-0, scattering 8 hits over 5 innings.

Jacks collar Bulldogs 8-2

The Lumberjacks carpooled north to West Milton in hopes of keeping alive their chances at a SWBL title. Nathan Hyatt's Jacks came ready to play, sending veteran Hank "O'Henry" Beasore to mound in search of his 3rd victory of the campaign. The Jacks scored first with two tallies in the top the third inning on a base knock by Greg Ambrose, a run-scoring single off the bat of left fielder Mike Galaska, followed by a hooking liner down the left field line by Colin Morris for a double, scoring Galaska.

Senior Corey Bohache fought off a fastball for a Texas league single into center field and stole 2nd to begin the Jacks fourth. Robbie Wagner flared an rbi single to left field, pushing across Bohache for a 3-0 Lumberjack lead.

The Jacks extended their advantage in the 5th frame with another pair of runs on Mike Galaska's second single of the game and a home run by Jack's centerfielder Morris that was last seen by Dayton Air Traffic Control exiting Union Township air space headed towards Ludlow Falls. The Bulldogs scratched across an unearned run in their half of fifth, making the score 5-1.

The teams traded runs to finish the contest 8-2. Beasore went the distance, giving up four hits, no earned runs and whiffing six in another complete game victory for the junior right-hander. Four Lumberjack sluggers had multiple hit games with Morris collecting 3 rbis and six total bases, Wagner a pair of rbis on two hits, Ambrose two rbis on two hits, and Mike Galaska scoring twice on his pair of singles. The Lumberjack victory sets the stage for "moving week" as the Jacks, 5-3 in SWBL play, take on league leaders Bellbrook and Eaton next Monday and Tuesday, and Franklin on Wednesday. A sweep puts the Lumberjacks in the catbird seat, while a loss most likely will end Oakwood's chances at the elusive SWBL title.

Community garden plots offered May 1

St. Paul's Episcopal Church and the City of Oakwood have launched a cooperative effort—a community garden to be placed on the green space next to the church. This is a wonderful opportunity for us to come together and grow healthy, local food for families, while also sharing with those who are less fortunate. All gardeners will be asked to donate a portion of their yield to a local food bank or to agencies that feed the homeless. Plots of 12 feet by 12 feet will be offered; some raised plots (to ease accessibility) will be offered. A chart showing the plot arrangement is available for view in the church Cloister. A $10 fee per plot will offset St.

Paul's watering costs. Please join us for an informational meeting on Saturday, May 1, at 10 a.m. in the Parish Hall at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. At that time, gardeners will have an opportunity to view and reserve a plot. If you like, you may bring a sack lunch and stay to watch the movie Food, Inc. following the meeting.

Wegerzyn plant sale May 1
