OHS students attend WSU French Immersion Day

On Wednesday, Nov. 4, six advanced French students from Oakwood High School joined 250 high school students from 18 Ohio schools to celebrate National French Week at Wright State University in Dayton, Ohio. Before attending the seventh annual WSU French Immersion Day, students signed a pledge to speak only French all day long. Because the United Nations declared 2009 the Year of Astronomy, all immersion day activities were centered around the theme of interplanetary exploration and the wonders of space. Wright State professors and students facilitated interactive French-only activities, such as a flag parade and game, theatre workshop, live music, Mad Libs, Trivial Pursuit, Simon Says, and an essay-writing contest based on the Petit Prince. In his keynote address, the president of Wright State University, Dr. David Hopkins, reminded students of the relevance of studying French, a language spoken by over 200 million people in 50 countries all over the world, and a common language for culture, diplomacy, research, science, business and international communication.
