

Desk in study is replete with souvenirs.

Replica from page 12 is for all practical purposes a museum dedicated to their collective memory.

This replica home is but one of seven historic home replicas that are slated for construction in the future. Homes of Thomas Edison, Neil Armstrong, John Glenn are currently underway and homes of Amelia Earhart, Bessie Coleman (the first black woman to earn a pilot's license), and a replica of Wilbur Wright's birthplace in Indiana are also in the planning stages.

In summation, the Wright

Homestead is a well-built and scrupulously maintained home that harkens back to an earlier time when life was spent more on the outdoor veranda than in front of a TV set. It is a fine example of Victorian style and proud representative of the past.
